Naturalisation is the most common method for individuals who have lived in the UK for a significant period and meet specific criteria. This typically involves demonstrating five years of lawful residency, with at least 12 months of that period being under ILR. Key requirements include a good character (meaning no serious criminal convictions), a sufficient knowledge of English, and passing the Life in the UK Test, which assesses an individual's understanding of British customs, laws, and history. The application process requires thorough documentation, and adherence to the strict guidelines set by the Home Office is paramount.

Registration: For Specific Categories
